Students have the opportunity to explore a range of literary techniques essential to both fiction and poetry, including setting, form, and voice, often by considering a particular theme. Students read widely to reflect on the boundaries of flash fiction and prose poetry and to consider what makes language in fiction lyrical and profound, while still serving the story, and in what ways a narrative thread in a poem can heighten the impact of the language a poet employs. Success in the workshop depends on student participation, in-class and take-home writing assignments, critiques of peers' work, and consistent dedication to the process of revision.
