2024 GSNJS

RESPONSIBLE USE OF THE INTERNET

The GSNJS incorporates computing devices and the internet into the instructional program to facilitate resource sharing, innovation, and communication.

- Abide by the generally accepted rules of network etiquette. These include, but are not limited to, being polite in messages to others, using appropriate language and respecting the privacy and personal rights of others. Do not reveal private information on the internet.
- Use only those computing and information technology resources for which you have authorization. Do not use someone else's account or password or share your account or password with someone else. Do not access or copy someone else's electronic mail, data, programs, or other files without permission
- Use computing and information technology resources only for their intended purpose. For example, do not send forged or "hoax" messages. Do not use electronic resources for harassment, bullying, or stalking other individuals.
- Protect the access and integrity of computing and information technology resources. For example, do not release a virus or worm that damages or harms a system or network.
- Abide by applicable laws and policies and respect the copyrights and intellectual property rights of others, including the legal use of copyrighted software. For example, it is a violation to download, copy, use, or distribute pirated software/content.

Your signature below is an indication that you agree to use the internet and associated technology responsibly and ethically throughout the program.
